Clothing Recommendations

- Insulating underwear: Something that can wick moisture away from the body.
- Mid-weight insulating layer: A light synthetic fleece or wool shirt/pullover.
- Heavyweight insulating layer: Wool, down or heavy-weight fleece jacket (especially May, June, September, and October.)
- Waterproof and windproof outer layer: Lightweight, and breathable if possible. Both jackets and pants are recommended.
- Two Hats: A brimmed one for sun protection and possibly for rain and an insulating one for cool weather (May, June, September, and October.)
- Gloves: Lightweight glove liners, and possibly even a pair of heavier wool/fleece gloves or mittens if you are visiting in May, June, September or October.
- Socks: Light wool or synthetic liner sock with a heavier wool or synthetic outer sock, the inner-outer combination helps prevent blistering, wicks moisture and reduces friction. Cotton socks are not recommended.
- Footwear: Hiking boots or good or athletic shoes depending on what you plan on doing. Any shoes must provide stability, traction and comfort. Sandals, athletic shoes or other leisure footwear can be used for relaxing or easy walking.

- Generators are permitted at RV or combination sites only during the day between 8:00am and 8:00pm. Generators may not exceed 60 decibels at 50 feet and cannot be used at tent-only sites.
- Quiet hours are 10:00pm to 6:00am.
- Campground dump stations can be used by all Yellowstone visitors, regardless of having a campground reservation, free of charge.
